David trusts in the Lord's mercy and rejoices in His salvation.
To the chief Musician, A Psalm of David.

$D^{m7(+)}$ $C^{(-)}$
1. How long wilt thou forget me, O Lord?
$D^{m7(+)}$ C
For ever? how long wilt thou hide thy face from me?
$D^{m7(+)}$ $C^{(-)}$
2. How long shall I take counsel in my soul?
$D^{m7(+)}$ C
Having sorrow in my heart daily?
$D^{m7(+)}$ $C^{(-)}$
How long shall mine enemy be exalted over me?
$D^{m7(+)}$ C
(How long wilt thou forget me, O Lord?)
$D^{m7(+)}$ $C^{(-)}$
3. Consider and hear me, O Lord my God:
$D^{m7(+)}$ C
Lighten mine eyes, lest I sleep the sleep of death;
$D^{m7(+)}$ $C^{(-)}$
4. Lest mine enemy say, I have prevailed against him;
$D^{m7(+)}$ C
And those that trouble me rejoice when I am moved.
$D^{m7(+)}$ $C^{(-)}$
5. But I have trusted in thy mercy;
$D^{m7(+)}$ C
My heart shall rejoice in thy salvation.
$D^{m7(+)}$ $C^{(-)}$
6. I will sing unto the Lord,
$D^{m7(+)}$ C
Because he hath dealt bountifully with me.
$D^{m7(+)}$ G C
(Because he hath dealt bountifully with me.)
