

Psalm 104

HRN_260_120609

09 June 2012

2nd Fret

Travis Pick

The Lord is clothed with honor and majesty--He makes His angels spirits and His ministers a flaming fire--Through His providence He sustains all forms of life--His glory endures forever.

| | |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1 Am Dm Am Bless the Lord, O my soul O Lord my God, thou art very great Thou art clothed with honour and majesty 2 F G C F Who coverest thyself with light as with a garment Who stretchest out the heavens like a curtain 3 F G Who layeth the beams of his chambers in the waters Who maketh the clouds his chariot Who walketh upon the wings of the wind 4 F G Who maketh his angels spirits His ministers a flaming fire 5 F G Who laid the foundations of the earth That it should not be removed for ever 6 F G C F Thou coveredst it with the deep as with a garment The waters stood above the mountains 7 F G At thy rebuke they fled At the voice of thy thunder They hasted away 8 F G They go up by the mountains They go down by the valleys Unto the place which thou hast founded for them 9 F G C F Thou hast set a bound that they may not pass over That they turn not again to cover the earth | 10 F G He sendeth the springs into the valleys Which run among the hills 11 F G They give drink to every beast of the field The wild asses quench their thirst 12 F G By them shall the fowls of the heaven Have their habitation Which sing among the branches 13 F G He watereth the hills From his chambers The earth is satisfied with the fruit of thy works 14 F G C F He causeth the grass to grow for the cattle And herb for the service of man That he may bring forth food out of the earth 15 F G And wine that maketh glad the heart of man And oil to make his face to shine And bread which strengtheneth man's heart 16 F G The trees of the Lord are full of sap The cedars of Lebanon, which he hath planted Where the birds make their nests As for the stork, the fir trees are her house 17 F G The high hills are a refuge for the wild goats And the rocks for the conies |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|

| | | | |
|----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 19 | F G He appointed the moon for seasons C F The sun knoweth his going down F G C F 20 Thou makest darkness, and it is night F G F C Wherein all the beasts of the forest do creep forth | 28 | F G That thou givest them they gather C F Thou openest thine hand F G C They are filled with good F G 29 Thou hidest thy face C F They are troubled F G Thou takest away their breath C F They die, and return to their dust F G 30 Thou sendest forth thy spirit C F They are created F G C And thou renewest the face of the earth F G 31 The glory of the Lord C F Shall endure for ever F G C The Lord shall rejoice in his works F G 32 He looketh on the earth C F And it trembleth F G C He toucheth the hills, and they smoke F G 33 I will sing unto the Lord C F As long as I live F G I will sing praise to my God C F While I have my being |
| 21 | F G The young lions roar after their prey F C And seek their meat from God | 30 | F G Thou sendest forth thy spirit C F They are created F G C And thou renewest the face of the earth F G 31 The glory of the Lord C F Shall endure for ever F G C The Lord shall rejoice in his works F G 32 He looketh on the earth C F And it trembleth F G C He toucheth the hills, and they smoke F G 33 I will sing unto the Lord C F As long as I live F G I will sing praise to my God C F While I have my being |
| 22 | F G The sun ariseth C F They gather themselves together F G C F And lay them down in their dens | 31 | F G The glory of the Lord C F Shall endure for ever F G C The Lord shall rejoice in his works F G 32 He looketh on the earth C F And it trembleth F G C He toucheth the hills, and they smoke F G 33 I will sing unto the Lord C F As long as I live F G I will sing praise to my God C F While I have my being |
| 23 | F G Man goeth forth unto his work C F And to his labour until the evening | 32 | F G The glory of the Lord C F Shall endure for ever F G C The Lord shall rejoice in his works F G 32 He looketh on the earth C F And it trembleth F G C He toucheth the hills, and they smoke F G 33 I will sing unto the Lord C F As long as I live F G I will sing praise to my God C F While I have my being |
| 24 | F G O Lord, how manifold are thy works! C F In wisdom hast thou made them all F G C The earth is full of thy riches F G 25 So is this great and wide sea C F Wherein are things creeping innumerable F G C Both small and great beasts F G 26 There go the ships C F There is that leviathan F G C F Whom thou hast made to play therein F G 27 These wait all upon thee C F That thou mayest give F G C Them their meat in due season | 33 | F G My meditation of him shall be sweet F C I will be glad in the Lord Am Dm Am 35 Let the sinners be consumed out of the earth Dm Am And let the wicked be no more Dm Bless thou the Lord F G C O my soul praise ye the Lord |
| 25 | F G So is this great and wide sea C F Wherein are things creeping innumerable F G C Both small and great beasts F G 26 There go the ships C F There is that leviathan F G C F Whom thou hast made to play therein F G 27 These wait all upon thee C F That thou mayest give F G C Them their meat in due season | 34 | F G My meditation of him shall be sweet F C I will be glad in the Lord Am Dm Am 35 Let the sinners be consumed out of the earth Dm Am And let the wicked be no more Dm Bless thou the Lord F G C O my soul praise ye the Lord |
| 26 | F G There go the ships C F There is that leviathan F G C F Whom thou hast made to play therein F G 27 These wait all upon thee C F That thou mayest give F G C Them their meat in due season | 35 | F G My meditation of him shall be sweet F C I will be glad in the Lord Am Dm Am 35 Let the sinners be consumed out of the earth Dm Am And let the wicked be no more Dm Bless thou the Lord F G C O my soul praise ye the Lord |
| 27 | F G These wait all upon thee C F That thou mayest give F G C Them their meat in due season | | |